BAND	PIN PIN SUGAR
TITLE	LATEX DUELLOS
PRODUCED BY	MEGAPLOMB / BAR LA MUERTE
CATALOG	MPL001 / BAR22

Greedy and irresponsible, the Pin Pin Sugar seem to assimilate the stimuli with which they get in touch always transforming them in something new. So here is Latex Duellos, a proper world with its own rules, 36 tracks for 36 minutes, 36 episodes to be shuffled as you like (or random), where the improvisations seem to have an order and the odd rhythms appear crooked instead of rigid. A seriocomic apocalypse's landscape, lucifer sarcasm, poisons with no antidote, but who cares... Jacopo Andreini (Enfance Rouge, Bz Bz Ueu, Nando Meet Corrosion, OvO, e-Neem, Ronin...) joins the bare power-trio set on some tracks, with his sax, his pocket trumpet and even a straw... And we also find Turkish saz, defective radios, hit scrap iron and pseudo-ambient electronics interludes to make this record wide-ranging, a tortuous way which never rests on its laurels, that stutters, changes its mind and subject, wanders and... what we were talking about? Part of the electronic contribution is work of Attila Faravelli (Lab, Cods) author also of recording and mixdown. And when the music is not enough here is the vocals, sketching absurd sights, spitting out disillusioned complaints or haranguing the crowd. Everything in a packaging rich of symbols, postmodernity and typical food.
